Political Science 41500
Seminar on Nationalism in the Age of Globalization
Spring 2015
Instructor: John Mearsheimer

Course Description: Nationalism has been the most powerful political ideology in the world for the past two centuries, which is why the world is comprised mainly of nation-states. Nevertheless, nationalism is a difficult concept to grasp. This course focuses on exploring exactly what a nation is and how nations relate to the state. Much attention is also paid to the causes of nationalism, its effects on empires, American nationalism, and how nationalism relates to religion and other ideologies like liberalism and communism.

Course Requirements: Every student is expected to do all the reading, attend all the seminars, and participate in the discussion. The grade will be based on classroom participation (25%) and one 15-page paper (75%).

A list of paper topics will be provided, from which students will choose one. Papers will be due in my office (Pick 416A) no later than 5:00 pm on Wednesday of exam week -- June 10. For graduating students, papers will be due no later than 5:00 pm on Wednesday, June 3. Papers received after that time will be dropped one letter grade for each day past the due date. The paper must be: no longer than 15 pages of text, double-spaced, have at least 1-inch margins on all four sides, and have a standard-sized font.

Readings and Books: The following paperbacks are available at the Seminary Coop Bookstore:

Benedict Anderson, Imagined Communities (Verso)
David A. Bell, The Cult of the Nation in France (Harvard)
Ernest Gellner, Nations and Nationalism (Cornell)
